THE ASSASSIN'S BALL FIRED

By the Hand That Had Sworn to Protect Her.

A HUSBAND'S UNNATURAL DEED.

A Rockingham County Tragedy That Has Thrown the Community Into Consternation.

J. L. Barham, a farmer of Rockingham county, who sold tobacco today at the Farmers' Warehouse, brings the distressing news of a horrible incident that occurred near Geneva, Rockingham county, Thursday afternoon.

It is a shocking story of a defenseless woman murdered by the hand of her own husband—he who swore to protect her in sickness and in health.

The facts as related to us by Mr. Barham are substantially these: Geo. Craig, a farmer living on what is known as the Cornelius Williams place, walked into the room where his wife lay on a bed of sickness Thursday afternoon, picked up a revolver and shot her as deliberately as if she had been a beef. She was lying on the bed with her face turned toward the door and spoke to her husband as he entered the room. His reply was a ball from the revolver held in his hand.

The ball entered the unfortunate woman's abdomen and caused excrutiating pain. She suffered untold agony until yesterday morning, when the summons of death came as a great relief.

No earthly reason can be assigned for this rash and unnatural deed on the part of Craig, unless it be insanity, and he has always appeared to be a man of sound mind. So far as is known the relations between he and his murdered wife have always been pleasant, no family disturbance of any kind having ever marred the peace of their home.

After he had shot his wife Craig seemed to lament the terrible affair and attempted to take his own life, but the pistol was taken from him by some of the neighbors who had arrived. After this he procured a knife and attempted to cut his throat, but was again thwarted in his purpose.

The occurrence has naturally thrown a pall over the entire community and the people are greatly excited over the ghastly deed. Up to this morning Craig had not been arrested, but was held under surveilance by the neighbors.

The only cause that can be assigned for the rash deed is, that it was committed in fit of insanity.

Mr. Craig is a man of about 50 years of age, and is in fairly good circumstances. He is what is known among the farmers as a "good liver," and therefore the sad affair cannot be attributed to any business troubles.

He has several children, some of whom are grown, one daughter being married.

Mr. Craig formerly lived a few miles north of Greensboro, from which place he moved to Rockingham county several years ago.

Talked With the "Voice."

A Journal reporter, accompanied by Chief Teague and a Sentinel man, called upon the negro boy who claims to be possessed of a "voice," yesterday afternoon. The boy, whose name is Geo. Adams, is about 15 yeas old, and is a full-blooded negro. He is accompanied by his father and another colored man, whose name is Dixon, and they all hail from Orangeburg, S. C.

The father says they first discovered the voice over two years ago, during a severe illness of the boy. When it first appeared it told them it was a spirit from Gloryland and was called Josephine, and said it had come to warn people of the wrath to come.

The Journal reporter took his seat near the boy and at once "Josephine" began to converse with him. She told the scribe his name, that he was a married man, but had no children, all of which is true. She refused to say how long he had been married, saying that was an umimportant question. After bidding the Journal man good day she communed with the Sentinel reporter, telling him a number of things about himself, and failed only once to give correct answers to all the questions asked.

The presence of the "voice" is rather mystifying, but the truth about the matter is, the boy is a born ventriloquist, and can so control his voice as to make it appear to be in his stomach in place of in his throat. There is no movement of his lips, and nothing that he does would indicate that he was doing the talking, but there is no other solution of the "mystery," and this is unquestionably the proper one.—Winston Journal.

The Tramp of Troops at Hazelton.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

HAZELTON, Pa., Sept. 11.—The state militia, every man with a loaded rifle and a gleaming bayonet, ready for any sort of work they may be called upon to do, are on guard today at the little mining village of Latimer and about all the surrounding mines.

The Ninth regiment of Wilkesbarre arrived early this morning and it is expected that the rest of the third brigade, numbering in all about twenty-five hundred men, will be in possession of this city and the neighboring mining villages this afternoon.

The brigade is commanded by Gen. Gobin, who was recently elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. The action of the Governor in ordering out troops is in response to a telegram from the leading citizens of Hazelton. A mass meeting of citizens, who are not in any way connected with the coal trade, was held last night and passed resolutions strongly denouncing the shooting of miners and protesting against sending troops to the grounds. The meeting further declared that the troops are not needed and demanded that the sheriff and deputies who shot the miners be prosecuted.

Indignation is at fever heat and the sheriff's lame explanation of the tragedy is everywhere received with expressions of incredulity and disgust.

The official report of the affair gives nineteen killed and forty-one wounded. Eleven were instantly killed, four died during the night, and four this morning.

HAS THE RIGHT NAME.

The New York World's Agent Behind the Bars.

Some days ago a fellow bearing the rather strange cognomen of Jason C. Boozer struck town. He represented himself as being the authorized agent of the New York World, and seemingly was in a position to offer some rare bargains to prospective dealers in the above named journal. He offered to sell 100 copies of the World for $1.25, which is cheaper than they can be purchased in New York.

He seemed to have a special fondness for "coffin varnish," as will be shown later on in this story. Yesterday evening just before 7 o'clock this same "boozy" Boozer sauntered into THE TELEGRAM office and tried to tempt the conscientious city editor and the sober foreman with some of his "booze," of which he had a bottle about half full.

But to go back to the beginning. About three nights ago a five gallon keg of wine was stolen from the Southern's transfer depot. Yesterday it was found hidden by the side of J. L. King & Co.'s tobacco factory, and suspicion was aroused against Boozer. The police kept quiet and this morning succeeded in working up enough evidence to arrest the suspected thief. Officers Scott and Jeffries made the arrest, and Boozer is now in the "cooler" awaiting his trial before the mayor.

It can also be proven that he carried a concealed weapon, and it is more than probable that two cases will be made out against him.

CHEVALIER BUTLER.

WHEN Senator Butler says that "Mrs. Wilson is not one whom the railroad would have selected" to run the Round Knob hotel, he displays the cloven hoof very conspicuously. The man who will attempt to drag the mother of his opponent into a political controversy has fallen pretty low in the scale. We think the senator has blundered just there. North Carolina politics has declined to a low level, but we are pleased to believe that the mass of North Carolinians have not fallen quite so far. It is the politicians not the people that are off colour.

Whatever may have been the failings of men in public life in this state hitherto, they have in their public utterances respected women. It was left to this valiant champion of reform, this up to date Roland, this knight of the pie table round, to couch a lance against her. How much more of this sort of statesmanship will it take to suffice? Truly, is not this a valorous man? He not only attacks a woman, but, as an added proof of his high chivalry and invincible valor, he selects a widow.

Let us swell with a proper and just pride when we contemplate this embodiment, this epitome, this double quintescence of North Carolina manhood that represents us in the Senate. Senator! There is so much of courtesy and of chivalery, of learning, of wisdom, of ripe and rounded manhood suggested by the name. Is this the best we could do toward preserving the dignity of the title?

Mr. Butler calls his paper the "Caucasian." He should change its name. It is a small thing to ask; the Senator is facile at changes; it will be easy for him. Genuine Caucasians do not follow this method of warfare; mongrels might, but not Caucasians. In this State Caucasian, like Senator, stands or should stand, for a good deal. Would Mr. Butler spoil both at once?

IN A RECENT editorial we stated that information concerning the state had never been put in attractive and accessible form. Commenting upon this the Charlotte News sets us right, in its usual courteous way, by pointing out that the Board of Agriculture has recently issued a volume on "North Carolina and Its Resources." We have not fallen in with the publication, but are pleased to learn that something is being done to attract the capital necessary to our upbuilding. We are still of the opinion, however, that the state has been poorly advertised as compared with other southern states—Arkansas, Florida, Texas and Mississippi for example.

THE railroads have claimed more than their usual number of victims this week. Two collisions in three days in which nearly forty people have lost their lives, suggests that there must have heen an element of recklessness or carelessness in the matter. It is hard to understand how, with the precautions taken by the road management and the safeguards thrown around passengers, such catastrophes can befall unless railroad employes disregard orders.

WHO wrote "section 22" of the new tariff law is likely to take its place as an unsolved puzzle along with those other classic querries, "Who wrote the Junius letters?" and "Who hit Billy Patterson?"

THE energy with which Louisville is trying to elbow St. Louis out of last place, at the tail end of the ball season, is what the baseball editor would call the "feature of the game."

IMPORTERS are declaring that, so far as they are concerned, the tariff law is squeezing all the juice out of lemons.

A SINGLE boil seems to be giving Luetgert more trouble than all of Job's did that worthy patriarch.

IT is at last finally settled that Paderewski has given up music. He has had his hair cut.

THE reports that come from the southwest now may be very truthfully termed somewhat yellow.

CAN it be that Mr. Hanna has ordered Gexeral Coxey to muffle his tom tom?.

ABOUT BOOKS AND PERIODICALS.

[All books and magazines mentioned below may be had at Wharton's book store.]

AMONG the many excellent articles in the Review of Reviews for September are the following: "Dr. Andrews and Free Speech," "Canada and the Klondyke," "Speaker Reed on the New Tariff," "Mr. McKinley as a Reformer" and England in the East." There is always an abundance of meat in this magazine, and they who read only one periodical will find it covers the entire field more fully than any other. There is always the same objection to it that there is to hash, however.

***

THE staid old Atlantic will probably always "gang its ain gait," as the Scotch would say, but it is very sure paced. It does not take up with any of the wrinkles of the periodical faddist, but it may be depended upon to say something worth the attention of serious-minded folks, always. It is rather in a class by itself among American magazines, and while its clientele is not so large as the illustrated monthlies, it may at least have the satisfaction of knowing that it is much more weighty. It opens with a contribution by Roosevelt on "Municipal Reform," in which the latter gives his views concerning the reform movement in New York. There is a second installment of "Some Unpublished Letters," by Deane Swift, and "A Southerner in the Pelopensian War," by Basil L. Gildersleeve. The finest paper of the number, though, is "On Being Human," by Prof. Woodrow Wilson. Mr. Wilson is one of the most entertaining of our present day writers and he is both thoughtful and entertaining in this instance.

***

THE CENTURY, best of all American illustrated monthlies, all in all, is a fair number this month. One thing is noteworthy, the poetry of the number is above the average. "A Chopin Fantasy," by Robert Underwood Johnson, has the classic beauty of Mathew Arnold's verses, while "The Violet Gate," by Clarence Urmy, is as fresh and fragant as a violet under the morning dew. The stories are average only.

***

THE Philadelphia Record critic says the sedate William Dean Howells has indulged in a Saratoga idyl in his latest work, "An Open-Eyed Conspiracy." The society that crowds that famous American watering place during the months of July and August is submitted to an exhaustive and pitiless analysis. The local color is achieved with a master hand at realism, and the same keen grasp of character-drawing that marks every novel of Mr. Howells is also revealed in this light summer study, al fresco, so-to-speak. The love study is started by the "Open-Eyed Conspiracy" of an elderly couple to interest a young girl, who is having a dull time at Saratoga. Their conspiracy leads to their own confusion and a new wedding announcement.

***

"THE PAINTED DESERT," by Kirk Munroe, is another American story, but one of adventure confessedly for young America. It is notable for its interesting description of that wonderful region of Arizona described in the title, "It is a region," states Mr. Munroe, "almost as little known as the deserts of the moon, and one shunned with superstitious dread by the Indian tribes who dwell on its borders as a place of departed spirits. So desolate is it, and so void of life or the means of sustaining life, that not more than a score of white men have ever gazed on its marvels and lived to tell of them." In this story a desert-wanderer on the point of dying from thirst suddenly discovers a hidden valley lying in the interior of one of the high plateaux called mesas. In this valley he discovers an old Quaker, who, with his wife and an Indian boy, have been obliged to live here for some years, owing to the impossibility of their crossing the desert to civilization. The book closes with a description of a trip down the grand canon of the Colorado. A picturesque feature of the work is the snake-dance of the Oraybi, the Moqui Indians.

***

SAMUEL HARDEN CHURCH'S "John Marmaduke" is a romance of the English invasion of Ireland in 1649. The central figure is that of Cromwell.

***

ELLA MACMAHON'S "The Touchstone of Life" is a tale of love and politics, in which a novel revenge is achieved by the hero. But what will give it its chief interest to the modern reader is its attempt to deal with empire-building in Africa. Some critics have pretended to see in one of the characters a reflex of Cecil Rhodes, the dictator of Rhodesia.

***

CY WARMAN, the engineer-poet, has spun the story of "The Express Messenger and Other Tales of the Rail." It contains the Kiplingesque story of "The Locomotive That Lost Herself." Another tells of "A Locomotive as a War Chariot."

A Mortgage on the Sun.

A Danville man has applied for a patent on a device for cooking and heating with which he will use nothing but solar rays. He claims that sunshine or clouds concentrate heat enough to warm any building at a cost of a cent a day. This is not moonshine, but sunshine.—Fairbrother's Farrago.

SPINS LIKE A TOP.

A Little Boy Is Tortured by a Peculiar Nervous Malady.

A little boy; the son of prominent people in Jersey City, is afflicted with a most extraordinary malady. Involuntarily he spins like a top. Every few steps, whether he walks or runs, he turns his body all the way around two or three times. He wishes not to revolve, he tries not to revolve, but he has no more control over the revolutions of his body than he has over the revolutions of this mundane sphere. These "forced motions" have grown in force and frequency upon the unhappy boy since he learned to walk.

Lately Dr. Charles K. Mills and Dr. W. G. Spiller, two eminent physicians of Philadelphia who are specialists in diseases of the nervous system, carefully examined this whirling boy.

"The interesting feature in the case," said the distinguished physicians, "is the tendency of the patient to revolve while walking. He has been taught since he entered the school that he must overcome this impulse. He insists that 'he cannot help turning.'

"It is impossible at present to decide whether these revolutions which 'he cannot help' are the result of organic or functional conditions.

"If some one would devise a method by which the Roentgen rays could give us a photograph of a brain within a skull, our means of diagnosing would then give positive results in such difficult problems."—New York Journal.

A WONDERFUL CAT.

It Reasons Like a Man and Has Full Knowledge of Cause and Effect.

Charles Talcott of Starrucca, Pa., has a remarkable cat. The other night Mr. Talcott came home with his feet wet. He could not find his bootjack, so he couldn't remove his boots. While he was searching for it the cat came into the chamber, remained a moment, listening to his master's opinion of the missing implement's spiritual deserts and then withdrew.

Leaving the house, the cat went directly into the garden of an adjoining house, looked up at a chamber and lifted up its voice in song. In a few moments the window above was thrown up and something was hurled out with tremendous force, striking the earth near the performer. It was a bootjack. The cat, without waiting to finish the note he had just attacked dragged the useful implement up stairs and laid it at his master's feet.—Exchange.

WHEELING TO KLONDIKE.

Two Men Possessing a Total of Three Legs Have Gone to the Goldfields.

Two bicycles lashed together, with a rowboat between them, containing provisions, clothing, bedding, mining implements and an adjustable umbrella-like awning, pushed by two men with three legs between them, attracted much attention in Elizabeth, N. J., the other day.

The rig out was that of Toney Sauer and Paul Ball, who are on their way to the Klondike goldfields. They expect to get to the Klondike in 90 days.

Sauer, the one legged man, rides a bicycle with one pedal. He designed their boat, which is portable and can be taken to pieces. Both men have been to the Klondike before, and they expect to return in a palace parlor car.

Sued For His Wedding Expenses.

Joseph Hackett of Long Island City, N. Y., married Miss Grace E. Ferris of that place on Dec. 15, 1895. The marriage was not made public until March, 1896. The couple have since separated. In the police court recently Dr. Patrick J. McKeown brought suit against Hackett for $37.50, which he said he lent him at the time of the marriage. According to the doctor, Hackett confided to him that he was about to marry Miss Ferris and that he needed $12.50 in order to purchase the wedding ring. The physician advanced the cash, and a few days later Hackett borrowed $25 from him to meet the expense of a short wedding trip. Hackett did not defend the suit, and judgment was taken against him by default.—Exchange.

A Frog Centuries Old.

A live toad imbedded in solid clay for centuries without food, air or light. This is the story told by a workman in a tunnel in Illinois when he appeared among his fellows, bearing in his hands a fat and blinking "hopper," which he declared was discovered by him in a bed of hardpan clay and when liberated by a blow of his pick had jumped out and croaked a "good morning" to him.

When released, it stretched itself and acted as if it was rejoicing at its freedom. The workmen have the toad at their quarters.—Chicago Times-Herald.

A Bright Indian.

C. H. Bookout, a full blooded Indian, has been appointed a station agent at Wilmore, Kan. He once worked as a section hand, but learned telegraphy and educated himself in English.

In the Klondike Land.

Molly, go to packin.
Jenny, lend a hand.
It's nothin we'll be lackin
In the Klondike land.

Fellers there in clover
Never mind the cold,
Tilt an iceberg over
An grabble for the gold.

Here the weather's sunny.
Summer has her sweets,
But what is milk an honey
To walkin golden streets?

Here we're in a woe storm,
Gittin poor an old.
There's where every snowstorm
Is siftin down the gold.

Take yer hives o' honey,
Overturn the milk,
Ruther roll in money
An dress the gals in silk.

So, Molly, go to packin.
Jenny, lend a hand.
It's nothin we'll be lackin
In the Klondike land.

—F. L. Stanton in Atlanta Constitution.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT.

Do We or Do We Not Need a City Hall Building.

Without seeming to be premature we would suggest that the question of building a city hall might engage the attention of our people.

Both Winston and Charlotte have municipal buildings. By this plan the city government could be concentrated; the offices of the mayor and clerk, police court and city council all in the same building.

The mayor and council of Greensboro certainly deserve praise for the patient endurance they have shown in meeting in the sweat-room over the market. There is nothing in that locality to suggest a flower garden.

It must be borne in mind, however, that city halls cost money, and the cost should be carefully calculated as public buildings are apt to be very expensive.

Doing Nicely.

Whitt Stone, who was so painfully injured by a press in Stone's printing office yesterday afternoon, is getting along as well as could be expected. After he was carried home from the office it was found that it would be necessary to amputate the toes of the injured foot.

Dr. Brooks, assisted by Drs. Richardson and Turner, performed the operation. All three doctors say the operation was as successful as could have been wished, and that the patient will be all right in the course of time. Of course it will be several weeks before young Mr. Stone will be able to be out.

A Pleasant Occasion.

The literary and social meeting of the Centenary Epworth League held at the parsonage last evening was a pleasant affair. A good crowd was present to enjoy the program that had been prepared for the occasion, and altogether the evening passed off very pleasantly.

Rev. and Mrs. Gay take great interest in the young people and always delight in making it pleasant for them. The members of the Centenary League are always glad when a meeting of this kind is to be held at the parsonage.

Evangelistic Services.

A series of evangelistic services will be held in Grace M. P. church, beginning tomorrow and continuing through the week. After Sunday the services will be conducted by Rev. T. M. Johnson, of Henderson. Mr. Johnson is said to be an able and interesting preacher.

The public is cordially invited to the services, and a special invitation is extended to the members of the different city choirs to come out and assist in the music.

The Line Located.

The Winston Journal says that the proposed line of railroad from Mocksville to Mooresville has been located. It is thought that it will not be an expensive line to build and that the grading will begin in the near future.

BRIEF LOCAL MATTERS.

Matthews, Chrisholm & Stroud talk to you today about a guarantee. Their fall stock is now coming in, and it will pay you to give them a call before purchasing that fall suit.

The hour for the Sunday night service at the First Presbyterian Church has been changed from 8.30 to 8 o'clock. This change goes into effect to-morrow night, and the services will begin promptly at the appointed hour.

The Odell Hardware Company have a few words to say about bicycles to-day. This is the most delightful season of the year for bicycle riding, and if you are thinking of purchasing a wheel it will pay you to examine their stock.

The first rehearsal for the performance to be given in the Academy of Music September 24th was held last night, and everybody was well pleased with the way it passed off. This will be one of the best amateur performances ever given in Greensboro.

J. H. Phipps, the progressive and up-to-date Southside grocer, has joined the procession and contracted for space in THE TELEGRAM in which to keep his customers posted as to what he may have to offer. Today he has a fine lot of Magnum Bonum apples.

The large brick tobacco factory occupied by H. C. Berger & Co., is advertised for rent. This is a splendid building in a good location, and is one of the best places we know of for handling tobacco. It has a basement and a large lot in the rear of the building.

The Fishblate-Katz-Ranking Company announce that Leonard J. Fischer, cutter and designer for Kuh, Nathan & Fischer Company, the big merchant tailors of Chicago, will soon be with them with a complete line of imported and domestic suitings, and will personally take the measure of all who call. Fit and satisfaction will be guaranteed.

Another Curiosity.

If THE TELEGRAM menagerie keeps on growing we will soon be in a position to go into the business proper and charge an admittance to see "the greatest collection of natural and unnatural curiosities in existence."

The latest addition is presented by W. E. Gatlin, who resides on Edgworth street, and is an ear, or ears, of corn, for there are nine of them. The principal year is a large, well shaped one and has eight small ears growing out from it at the end which was next to the stalk. Some of these ears are rather diminutive in size, but all of them are filled with well developed grains of corn. It is quite a curiosity.

DR. CHAS. H. LOCKWOOD, A graduate of the National Veterinary College, who has had 10 years' experience of actual practice in veterinary medicine and surgery, has associated himself with Dr. J. W. Petty, under the firm name of Drs. Petty & Lockwood. Dr. Lockwood will attend the practice in and around Greensboro for a short while, as Dr. Petty will be away in the interest of the firm.
